THE VERY REV. BRYAN W. JERABEK, JCL

THE RENEWAL OF BAPTISMAL PROMISES

Dear brethren, through the Paschal Mystery we have been buried with Christ in Baptism, so that we may walk with him in newness of life. And so, now that our Lenten observance is concluded, let us renew the promises of Holy Baptism, by which we once renounced Satan and his works and promised to serve God in the holy Catholic Church. And so I ask you:

℣. Do you renounce sin, so as to live in the freedom of the children of God?
℟. I do.
℣. Do you renounce the lure of evil, so that sin may have no mastery over you?
℟. I do.
℣. Do you renounce Satan, the author and prince of sin?
℟. I do.
℣. Do you believe in God, the Father almighty, Creator of heaven and earth?
℟. I do.
℣. Do you believe in Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord, who was born of the Virgin Mary, suffered death and was buried, rose again from the dead and is seated at the right hand of the Father?
℟. I do.
℣. Do you believe in the Holy Spirit, the holy Catholic Church, the communion of saints, the forgiveness of sins, the resurrection of the body, and life everlasting?
℟. I do.

ABOUT TODAY'S LITURGY

The tomb lays empty—Christ is risen! Today's entrance antiphon reminds us of this truth. Then, we hear the first Alleluia we have heard in over forty days. In Masses such as today's, celebrated in the diocese's Cathedral church, in a diverse city, and on a day when many visitors are present, the Church has taught in the 20th and 21st Century that Gregorian chant is the one repertoire we can all claim as Catholics (cf. Sacrosanctum Concilium, #116). In the words of Pope Paul VI, chant helps "...make it easier for Christians to achieve unity and spiritual harmony with their brothers and with the living tradition of the past." (Voluntati Obsequens) At the same time, Sacrosanctum Concilium and the entire magisterium of the past century remind us that Cathedral churches have a specific mission to preserve and foster choirs and the "treasury of sacred music" (SC, #114). Because of this, on important days in the liturgical year, we offer choral settings of the Mass ordinary to glorify God in a special way, thanking him for his many blessings. This Easter at 11:00AM Mass, we present the Kyrie, Gloria, and Agnus Dei of Orlando de Lassus' Missa Octavi Toni. Typical of many of Lassus' (aka Orlando di Lasso) works for four-voice choir, the movements are all of very moderate length and are fairly homophonic (meaning the voices move more-or-less together). The Kyrie and Agnus Dei are more lyric and unfold gradually, whereas the Gloria is more pointed and rhythmic—no doubt due to its much longer and richer text. Lassus' work is considered the apogee of Franco-Flemish polyphony; extraordinarily prolific, Lassus' oeuvre is nonetheless of an exceptionally high quality. We sing two vernacular Easter hymns, "Good Christians, all" (derived from a German hymn) and "Jesus Christ is Risen Today", one of Charles Wesley's most famous hymn-paraphrases. Cathedral Choir sings a 16th Century English motet, Taverner's Dum transisset Sabbathum that comes from the oldest tradition of polyphonic writing. One voice (in this case, the baritone part) always sings the text's chant melody in long notes under the decoration of the other parts. All the other parts are based upon this voice, which proclaims the joyful text (the scene of the holy women finding the body of Jesus gone from the tomb) in an unhurried way. At communion, we hear a setting of the Easter sequence sung to polyphony by the Mexican (pre-) Baroque composer Francisco Lopez Capillas. The first native-born organist-choirmaster of the Mexico City Cathedral, Lopez Capillas was the first church composer of the New World to achieve fame both in Mexico and Spain. His works survive in manuscripts and choirbooks in both locations. A pragmatic composer, his works are neither large in scale nor particularly daring; however, as one hears from this piece, they are charming and captivating—and totally fitting for this most ebullient of liturgical days. Alleluia refrains dialogue with verses which set the text of the sequence; the final verse utilizes the full choir to proclaim, "We know that Christ has truly risen from the dead. Have mercy upon us, Thou triumphant King." Alleluia, Christ is risen!
