

THE CATHEDRAL OF SAINT PAUL

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

THE TWENTY-SEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

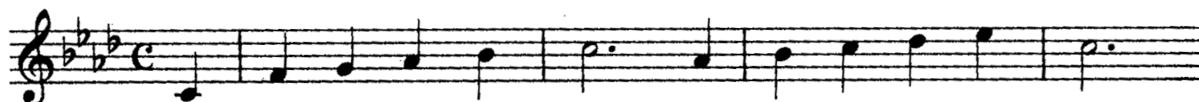

OCTOBER 7, 2018

Welcome to the Cathedral of Saint Paul. The order of Mass can be found on page 3 in the Sunday's Word booklets found in the pew racks. Please follow this order of worship for today's music.

ENTRANCE HYMN (ALL MASSES)

GOD IS MY GREAT DESIRE

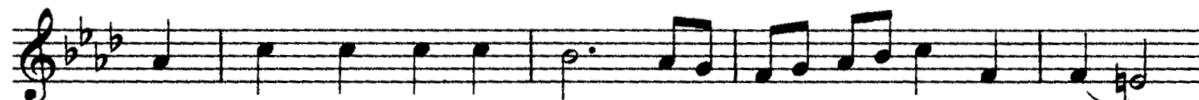

LEONI

1. God is my great de - sire, His face I seek the first;
2. God is my true de - light, My rich - est feast his praise,
3. God is my strong de - fense In ev - 'ry e - vil hour;

To him my heart and soul as - pire, For him I thirst.
Through si - lent watch - es of the night, Through all my days.
In him I face with con - fi - dence The temp - ter's power.

As one in des - ert lands, Whose ver - y flesh is flame,
To him my spir - it clings, On him my soul is cast;
I trust his mer - cy sure, With truth and tri - umph crowned:

In burn-ing love I lift my hands And bless his name.
Be - neath the shad - ows of his wings He holds me fast.
My hope and joy for ev - er - more In him are found.

ENTRANCE ANTIphon (11:00AM) In voluntate tua

CF. ESTHER 4:17

The whole world is in thy power, O Lord, King Almighty; there is no man that can resist thee. For thou hast made heaven and earth and all the wondrous things under the heavens; Thou art Lord of all.

—Choral setting Healey Willan, sung by Cathedral Choir

OFFERTORY ANTIPHON (11:00AM) Vir erat

JOB 1, 2, 7

Vir erat in terra nomine Iob, simplex et rectus, ac timens Deum: quem Satan petit, ut tentaret: et data est ei potestas a Domino in facultate et in carne eius: perdiditque omnem substantiam ipsius, et filios: carnem quoque eius gravi ulcere vulneravit.

There was a man in the land of Hus whose name was Job, a blameless, upright and God-fearing man; Satan asked to be allowed to tempt him, and the Lord gave him power over his possessions and his body; and so, he destroyed his possessions and his children, and he ravaged his flesh with horrible sores.

HOLY COMMUNION

We invite all Catholics who are properly disposed (i.e., in the state of grace and having fasted for one hour before communion) to come forward in the usual way to receive Holy Communion.

All others, including our non-Catholic guests, may remain in their pews and join us in prayer. Alternatively, to participate in the communion procession and receive a blessing, come forward in the line and cross your arms over your chest as you approach the minister. Thank you.

COMMUNION ANTIPHON (ALL MASSES) In salutari tuo

PSALM 119:49, 50

Please join in singing the refrain below after the cantor introduction and between verses of Psalm 119.

My soul as - pires af - ter your sal - va - tion; I hope in your word.

ABOUT TODAY'S MUSIC

Today's entrance antiphon reminds us, as it were, where our true allegiances here on earth should lie: "Within your will, O Lord, all things are established, and there is none that can resist your will. For you have made all things, the heaven and the earth, and all that is held within the circle of heaven; you are the Lord of all." We are reminded of the famous line from the Paradiso of Dante's Divine Comedy: "In His will is our peace." The musical setting is by Healey Willan, the great Canadian organist-choirmaster who helped lead a revival of music in the Anglican church in North America by rescuing great Catholic compositions (including Gregorian chant) from the dust-bin. In so doing, he and others helped preserve a repertoire through years where it was seldom heard and less often understood. This small setting is part of a complete set of introits and graduals Willan wrote on commission for the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod beginning in 1957. They are well-crafted and use the natural text rhythm for musical expression. The Collect is exceptionally beautiful today: "Almighty ever-living God, who in the abundance of your kindness surpass the merits and the desires of those who entreat you, pour out your mercy upon us to pardon what conscience dreads and to give what prayer does not dare to ask..." This week's offertory antiphon at first seems totally random, but actually is an allegory similar to those found in the first reading and gospel of today's Mass. Job is a "type" (or foreshadowing) of Christ; God allows the Devil to take everything from Job, just as he allowed Jesus to die on the Cross. Similarly, the landowner's son is an allegory for Jesus Christ. This allegory also is also presented in the first reading from Isaiah. An observant reader will also note that this passage from Isaiah inspires (in large part) the text of the Reproaches, or Improperium, of the Good Friday liturgy. There is one interesting point of "Catholic liturgical trivia" that one will find at the communion procession this week. Occasionally, a sharp-eyed congregant might notice a discrepancy in the communion antiphon text between the "Sunday's Word" book in the pew and the order of worship. After the reforms of the Second Vatican Council, in 1969 Pope Paul VI promulgated the current Ordo Missae with new antiphons for said Masses (that is, those without music.) At the same time, Paul VI had entrusted the monks of Solesmes Abbey the task of revising the Graduale Romanum (the chant "choirbook" of the Church) to correspond with the new order of Mass and lectionary. The Solesmes monks did so, often following the traditional Roman practice of quoting a section of the Gospel of the day as the communion antiphon. However, at other times, no suitable pairing could be found, so a chant from the repertoire was chosen at will ("ad libitum"). This is one of those weeks. This setting uses the Graduale Romanum text, which continues with Psalm 119 as is typical for this part of Ordinary Time. The postcommunion motet is by Giovanni Croce, a Venetian contemporary of the famous Gabrieli family. Croce, like the Gabrieli, specialized in large, multi-choir settings of texts. This setting of Aquinas' O Sacrum Convivium is small in scale, but dramatic in gesture, as if Croce is making up for the much smaller four-voice choir, and therefore smaller dynamic scope, used here. The Marian closing hymn reminds us we have begun the month of October, devotionally celebrated in honor of Our Lady. The voluntary after Mass is by the Belgian organist-composer Joseph Jongen. His Toccata uses rapidly alternating chords rather than arpeggiated configurations, as is often the case in the so-called "French toccata". These chords are "echoed" by the left hand, almost as if it were a shadow. Episodes, where the pedal receives the melody, do have a more typical arpeggiated figure, although these interludes are brief. Jongen takes the listener through a kaleidoscopic progression of keys before ending the Toccata on a dramatic, orchestra-style unisons.
