“CANTABILE” FROM 3 PIÈCES POUR ORGUE

CÉSAR FRANCK

THE SOLEMN ENTRANCE

The faithful gather (with their candles) at the rear of the church by the baptismal font. The celebrant and servers process to the font, where the lighting of candles commences immediately, while the following antiphon is sung.

ANTIPHON Ecce Dominus noster

ISAIAH 35:4,5

Ecce Dominus noster cum virtute veniet, ut illuminet oculos servorum suorum, alleluia. / Behold, our Lord will come with power, to enlighten the eyes of his servants, alleluia.

The celebrant then greets and addresses the faithful. The blessing of candles proceeds directly thereafter. After sprinkling with holy water and loading the thurible, the procession to the altar begins with the following words:

℣. Let us go in peace to meet the Lord.

℟. In the name of Christ. Amen.

The following antiphon, with verses from the Canticle of Simeon or Nunc Dimittis, is sung during the procession.

ANTIPHON (ALL MASSES) Lumen ad revelationem

LUKE 2:29-32

Lumen ad revelationem gentium, et gloriam plebis tuae Israel. / A light for revelation to the Gentiles and the glory of your people Israel. ℣. ALMA REDEMPTORIS MATER

G.P. PALESTRINA

O loving Mother of our Redeemer, gate of heaven, star of the sea, Hasten to aid thy fallen people who strive to rise once more. Thou who brought forth thy holy Creator, all creation wond'ring, Yet remainest ever Virgin, taking from Gabriel's lips that joyful "Ave!": be merciful to us sinners.

—Marian antiphon for Advent and Christmastide

ABOUT TODAY'S MUSIC

Today's Mass is one of the most beautiful feasts of the Church year: The Presentation of the Lord in the Temple. It brings many ideas, feelings, and prayers together: Our Lord Jesus Christ (and his parents, St. Mary and St. Joseph) satisfy the obligations of the Jewish law by presenting Jesus in the temple, but (as we know from the Canticle of Simeon that we hear in the introit of Mass and elsewhere), he is opening a new door, so to speak, of salvation—especially appropriate in this Jubilee Year. Finally, as many of us often pray the Holy Rosary, we are reminded of this feast (the fourth Joyful Mystery) on a weekly basis. It is no surprise that this day gives birth to a beautiful liturgy, with the blessing of candles particularly (thus the secondary name “Candlemas”), but also beautiful art (note the copy of the Dürer woodcut on the following page) as well as music. It is also the last day of the year that the Marian antiphon Alma Redemptoris Mater is sung, having been a feature of Compline and devotions since the First Sunday of Advent. It is, like the Presentation itself, a pivot point as we now welcome the Ave Regina Caelorum. We are thankful especially for the presence of the Cathedral Children's Schola Cantorum at the 8:30am Mass this weekend, as they lead us in the unique introductory rites of this Mass, and also in the communion antiphon and singing of the Alma. The voluntaries before and after Mass are both compositions of César Franck, composed in response to the building of the singular Cavaille-Coll organ at his church, Ste. Clotilde—an instrument that is one of the models for our very own Anna Catharine Grace Memorial Pipe Organ! Franck remarked, “Mon nouvelle orgue—c'est un orchestre!/My new organ—it's an orchestra!”, after hearing for the first time, and these pieces show his gifts as an orchestrator. The Cantabile is (as the title suggests) a singing piece, full of lyricism, demonstrating the oboe and trumpet stops. The Pièce Heroïque is usually characterized as a battle between evil and good; Franck surely had in mind the Franco-Prussian War that was raging at the time. It, like the closing hymn, ends our liturgical celebration on a triumphant note! Happy Feast Day!
