

THE CATHEDRAL OF SAINT PAUL

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

THE COMMEMORATION OF
ALL THE FAITHFUL DEPARTED (ALL SOULS')
NOVEMBER 2, 2025

Welcome to the Cathedral of Saint Paul. The order of Mass can be found in Sunday's Word, found in the pew racks.

At today's 11:00am Mass, Cathedral Choir presents Giovanni Francesco Anerio's Missa pro Defunctis, a complete setting of the Requiem Mass. As the Gradual and Alleluia (or Tract, which would have been used in the Extraordinary Form of Mass) are not set by Anerio, Choir sings these in their authentic settings from the Graduale Romanum. This is a unique opportunity to hear a frequently-recorded masterpiece in its intended liturgical setting.

Deliver me, O Lord, from death eternal on that fearful day, When the heavens and the earth shall be moved, When thou shalt come to judge the world by fire. ¶ I am made to tremble, and I fear, till the judgment be upon us, and the coming wrath, When the heavens and the earth shall be moved. ¶ That day, day of wrath, calamity and misery, day of great and exceeding bitterness, When thou shalt come to judge the world by fire. ¶ Eternal rest grant unto them, O Lord: and let perpetual light shine upon them.

ABOUT TODAY'S MUSIC

It is always a blessing to be able to present a complete setting of the Mass ordinary: this is considered a sort of rite of passage for most composers whether they are Catholic or not (or believers at all). It is, therefore, even more of a privilege to present a complete Requiem Mass setting. You probably already know a few, from the beautiful and frequently-performed setting by Gabriel Fauré, to the transcendent masterpiece that is Maurice Duruflé's pivotal 20th Century setting. However, today we present a true classic of Roman school polyphony. Felice Anerio is rather well-known in modern times as his relatively brief settings of various liturgical texts fit well in the modern rite of Mass; he also succeeded Palestrina (whose 500th anniversary we celebrate this year) as maestro di cappella at St. Peter's Basilica. Giovanni Francesco Anerio was one of Felice's younger brothers who served in many important posts in Italy, even ending his career in Poland (sadly passing away in Graz, Austria, on a final return trip to his native Italy). His Missa pro Defunctis is set for modest resources (four parts, sometimes fewer) but achieved some notoriety during the composer's lifetime and afterward as it has been reprinted numerous times in the intervening years. Interestingly, the plainsong incipits (which differ somewhat from the more modern "corrected" Solesmes version we are familiar with) are given in the score, and a good bit of the polyphony sung is based on the Gregorian chants we are familiar with or is at least composed in the same mode. We present all movements of the Mass today aside from the Dies irae, which is not a part of the modern Requiem Mass (however, the Libera me sung at communion has much of the same flavor). Much like Victoria's four-voice setting of the Requiem Mass (which Cathedral Choir has presented numerous times), Anerio's composition has a beautiful balance between each text in the Mass. The composition "feels" the same as if one were listening to the Gregorian chants, but simply has greater adornment. Thus, it not only satisfies the traditional ideals of a Requiem Mass, but also ideally illustrates the Second Vatican Council's call in Sacrosanctum concilium: "Therefore sacred music is to be considered the more holy in proportion as it is more closely connected with the liturgical action, whether it adds delight to prayer, fosters unity of minds, or confers greater solemnity upon the sacred rites". (#112) We hope this Requiem helps foster prayer on this day when we especially commemorate the Faithful Departed: may their souls rest in peace.
